DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restriction

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I        Claims 1-40, drawn to a method of identifying an agent that inhibits the binding of LBP-2 to an LBP-2 binding molecule by contacting in vitro an LBP-2 polypeptide, and a candidate agent and measuring the formation of a complex containing the LBP-2 polypeptide and the LBP-2 binding molecule, wherein the reduction in the formation of the complex in the presence of the candidate agent as compared within the absence of the candidate agent was determined; classified in class 530, subclass 350, 300; class 435, subclass 7.1.

Should Group I be elected, applicants are required to select one amino acid sequence from SEQ ID NOs: 7, 19, 20, 21 22 and 43.

- II        Claims 41-66, drawn to a method of identifying a candidate agent that binds to an LBP-2 regulatory nucleic acid sequence by contacting in vitro a candidate agent and an LBP-2 regulatory nucleic acid sequence; and measuring the binding of the candidate agent to the LBP-2 regulatory nucleic acid sequence; classified in class 536, subclass 23.1, 23.5; class 435, subclass 6.

Should Group II be elected, applicants are required to select one amino acid sequence from SEQ ID NOs: 7, 19, 20, 21 22 and 43.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and invention II are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the polypeptide of invention I is not used for the practice of invention II, and nucleic acid of II is not necessary for the practice of invention I, Therefore the inventions are distinct. Also inventions I and II require different steps and are directed to different ends and different effect. Therefore the inventions are distinct.

The restriction requires for a selection of a single sequence of polynucleotide sequence and a single sequence of amino acid sequence because each sequence has a different chemical and physical property (See specification pages 2 and 8). For example the human LBP-1, LBP-2 and LBP-3 nucleic acid molecule has the nucleotide sequence shown in Fig 22, 23 and 24 respectively; which are distinct from each other. Therefore, the use of each sequence in the method claims would have a different effect, for example use of a nucleic acid sequence from LBP-1 as a probe for the detection of nucleic acid in a sample may not detect the nucleic acid sequence of LBP-2 and/or LBP-3, similarly while use of a polypeptide sequence of LBP-1 for identifying a compound that specifically binds to the polypeptide of LBP-1 may not detect the compounds that bind with the polypeptide of LBP-2 and/or LBP-3. Therefore each sequence is distinct from the other.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a diligently filed petition under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(h).

Applicant is advised that the response to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
